Welcome to virtual AAPOR 2021! We appreciate your participation and contributions at this premier event for public opinion and survey research professionals.

We are convening virtually for the second year in a row. Thanks to your feedback and comments from the 2020 virtual conference, we have worked diligently to implement improvements for 2021, including selecting a new virtual conference platform and building in many opportunities for conversations and networking across all days of the conference. We have a mix of over 500 live presentations and prerecorded sessions with live Q&A for each prerecorded session, allowing AAPORites to connect in real time, as well viewing presentations at your convenience before, during, and after the conference.

Our theme, Data Collection, Measurement, and Public Opinion During a Pandemic, reflects how the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic upended data collection and public opinion research in unprecedented ways. As the world faced challenges to public health and safety, many survey organizations, federal statistical agencies, and public opinion researchers had to immediately pivot to a “new normal” of data collection, develop new survey questions to understand new and emerging social, economic, and health-related phenomena, and collect measurements on a scale – both time and geographic – like never before. All of this took place around the 2020 Presidential Election (and its aftermath) and while the 2020 Decennial Census was being collected and processed.

We have implemented a mini-conference dedicated to our conference theme to understand how the pandemic has affected our work and our society. There are four mini-conference sessions in each time slot across all four days of the conference, crossing all of the conference tracks, with live and prerecorded sessions. From new data collection approaches and solutions, changes in response rates, impacts of the pandemic on Census Bureau surveys, understanding attitudes toward equity and inclusion, the COVID-19 vaccine, and health care access, and understanding partisanship and participation in the election, our mini-conference sessions address a broad set of topics. Other must-see conference highlights include:

- A kickoff plenary session on Polling the Electorate During a Pandemic in which speakers will highlight the what we learned about the 2020 US election and polling;
- A closing plenary session, kicking off the inaugural AAPOR Award Lecture, featuring the winners of the 2020 and 2021 AAPOR Awards for Exceptionally Distinguished Achievement;
- Reports from two AAPOR Task Forces, including the AAPOR Task Force Report on the Performance of 2020 Pre-Election Polls and results of the AAPOR/WAPOR Task Force on Quality in Comparative Surveys; and
- Ample opportunities to connect with AAPOR’s Affinity Groups, Chapters, and newer members.

Wherever you are joining us – from your living room, home office, backyard, or actual office – we are so glad that you are engaging and connecting with AAPOR!

About AAPOR

Founded in 1947, the American Association for Public Opinion Research is the leading association of public opinion and survey research professionals.

The AAPOR community includes producers and users of survey data from a variety of disciplines. Our members span a range of interests including election polling, market research, statistics, research methodology, health related data collection and education. Membership in AAPOR is all about opportunity – the opportunity to learn from a diverse group of leaders in the survey and public opinion research field, the opportunity to network and exchange knowledge and the opportunity to improve how survey research is conducted and disseminated.

AAPOR Conduct Policy Preamble

As a professional association, AAPOR fully supports and values our members having collegial interactions that yield interpersonal connections, as well as intellectual outcomes: discussions, differing viewpoints, and scientific debates. Our events and activities are held in the spirit of free inquiry and free expression, which is important and necessary for advancing the science and practice of public opinion research. We pride ourselves on our professionalism and our respect for others.

AAPOR’s membership is global. Our conferences, meetings, and activities bring together people from around the world, and from many different cultures. As such, we need to be sensitive to cultural contexts that vary not only among regions of the USA, but also among regions of the world. We must also be sensitive to legacies that have produced discriminatory and prejudicial beliefs and practices, which threaten AAPOR’s coveted inclusive environment.

AAPOR is committed to providing a safe and welcoming environment for everyone attending or associated with our events and activities including AAPOR members, guests, staff, vendors, exhibitors, contractors, as well as venue staff. We are committed to providing an environment that is free from harassment and discrimination, whether sexual or otherwise, based on age, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, language, sexual orientation, gender, identity or expression, disability, health, socioeconomic status, marital status, domestic status, or parental status. Harassment and discrimination undermine the principles of equality and respect, and are serious forms of professional misconduct. AAPOR’s full conduct policy is available on our website. AAPOR members who violate this policy will be subject to discipline.

2021 Virtual Conference Platform and Interactive Schedule

The AAPOR 2021 Virtual Conference can be accessed through the Conference Platform (Pathable) on a web browser. The conference platform works best when viewed on a desktop or laptop rather than a mobile device. Conference registrants will log in to attend research sessions, short courses, and committee meetings, take part in Conference events, connect with other attendees on the conference platform, and connect with Exhibitors and Sponsors in the Virtual Exhibit Hall. This year’s conference features a mini-conference on Data Collection, Measurement, and Public Opinion During a Pandemic, with three live sessions and one session of prerecorded papers dedicated to the conference theme during each time slot. The Conference platform and recorded sessions will be available to registrants through March 2022. By participating as a presenter or audience member on the Conference Platform, attendees agree to be recorded. More information on conference sessions and special events can be found in this program and online.
AAPOR’s Commitment to Inclusion and Equity

Inclusion and Equity Committee Charge
The Inclusion and Equity Committee (IEC) shall be responsible for the oversight of AAPOR’s inclusion and equity strategies. This committee shall establish, implement, and maintain programs that promote the inclusion of diverse AAPOR members and ensure that members of marginalized groups receive equitable opportunities, recognition, and support within the organization.

AAPOR Diversity Statement
The American Association for Public Opinion Research embraces diversity and inclusion as institutional imperatives, as noted in the AAPOR 2025 Strategic Vision. Only by promoting an environment where differences in background, experience and perspectives are valued will AAPOR fully serve its members and remain vital in the future. It is therefore the policy of AAPOR to include members in all activities of the association regardless of their gender, age, race, religion, ethnic background, nationality, sexual orientation, disability status, or any other category protected by federal, state and local laws. AAPOR further seeks to reflect the diversity of its membership in thought and professional experiences, and pledges to equally value members regardless of their tenure within the profession, whether or not they are currently employed, and if employed, regardless of the size of their workplace or whether that workplace is in academe, the government, business, the media or another setting. AAPOR leaders have an obligation to identify any roadblocks to inclusion and work within the association to eliminate them. We also recognize that each AAPOR member has a personal responsibility to create, maintain and enhance a culture of inclusion within the association where every member is appreciated, differences in perspectives are respected and paths to leadership are open to all. By working together, our individual differences make our association stronger. Only by actively nurturing a culture of diversity and inclusion will we fully serve our current membership and prepare future AAPOR members for the needs of an ever-changing world.

AAPOR Inclusive Voices Award
AAPOR’s Inclusive Voices Award recognizes scholars/researchers, organizations, or institutions who help give voice to understudied and underserved populations. This may include producing important data sets, research, and survey methods that improve the ability to study complex social phenomena for these groups, including racial/ethnic minority groups, refugees and immigrants, LGBT persons, disabled persons, victimized populations, offenders re-entering society, children/youth/teens, impoverished communities, or other specific populations. Please join us in honoring research that honors AAPOR’s mission, commitment to recognizing outstanding research, and supports diversity and inclusive excellence.

AAPOR Student-Faculty Diversity Pipeline Award
The Student-Faculty Diversity Pipeline Award is intended to recruit faculty-student pairs interested in becoming AAPOR colleagues. The Award is given to members of historically underrepresented racial-ethnic groups interested in the study of public opinion and survey research methodology. The scholarly and practical understanding of our discipline is enhanced by the presence and involvement of different perspectives and creative thought. Such diversity and inclusion leads to consequential research, improved interdisciplinary collaboration, and a greater ability to address, understand, and solve problems related to public opinion and survey research methodology. This award is for students and faculty who identify as: American Indian or Alaska Native; Black or African American; Native Hawaiian or Other Pacific Islander; and Hispanic or Latino. The award waives conference registration and annual membership fees for the student and faculty member.

Opening Plenary & Conference Welcome

Polling the Electorate During a Pandemic
Tuesday, May 11, 2021, 10:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m. Eastern

The 2020 election cycle was unlike any in modern history. This plenary will examine what we learned about the electorate, voting, election night, and polling in general from the 2020 election season.

Panelists:
Jennifer Agiesta, CNN
Jennifer De Pinto, CBS
Lydia Saad, Gallup
Emily Swanson, AP

Moderator:
Courtney Kennedy, Pew Research Center

Jennifer Agiesta is Director of Polling and Election Analytics at CNN. Named to the position in January 2015, Agiesta produces all the network’s polling and leads its Election Night decision team, while guiding CNN’s reporting on the use of polls. She works out of CNN’s Washington DC bureau. Prior to joining CNN, Agiesta served as director of polling at The Associated Press. There, she ran a two-person polling unit, conducting domestic and international survey research for the news cooperative and leading its election night exit poll coverage. She has also covered polling at The Washington Post, launching the site’s polling blog Behind the Numbers, and helped build the National Election Pool exit poll operation at Edison Research. Prior to her media work, Agiesta worked on messaging research with DC firms Belden, Russonello and Stewart and Greenberg Quinlan Rosner. Agiesta holds a bachelor’s degree from Washington and Lee University, and is a native of Long Island.

Lydia Saad is Director of U.S. Social Research at Gallup where, working closely with an experienced and talented team, she oversees the content of U.S. Gallup Poll surveys and news articles. She writes extensively about U.S. public opinion for Gallup News, regularly discusses Gallup findings and trends with the news media, and has published numerous articles over the years for academic and other journals. Lydia is a longtime and active AAPOR member, currently serving as chair of the Future of AAPOR Finances Working Group and as a member of the 2020 Election Polling Taskforce. From 2019-2020 she served on the executive council as Secretary-Treasurer.

Emily Swanson is the director of public opinion research at The Associated Press. A member of AP’s polling unit in Washington since 2014, she oversees polls conducted by the AP-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research, including AP’s role in questionnaire design, data analysis and story development. Swanson also played a key part in the development of AP VoteCast, AP’s pioneering election research survey. As part of her role guiding journalists in their use of survey data, she helped develop updated polling standards analysis appear on CBSNews.com, including on CBS News Eye on Trends, the CBS News Election and Survey Unit’s blog. On election nights, she works as an exit poll analyst developing stories that shape CBS News’ coverage. Jennifer also serves as the CBS News representative on the National Election Pool Survey Committee. Before joining CBS News, Jennifer worked at Louis Harris & Associates, the polling firm founded by renowned pollster Louis Harris. She conducted research and assisted with survey projects in the fields of politics, health care and business. After her work at Harris, Jennifer joined Leadership Directories, Inc., a publisher of reference books becoming the Editor of the News Media Yellow Book, a quarterly directory of the news media industry. Jennifer is a member of the New York chapter of the American Association of Opinion Research (NYAAPOR) and has previously served as their Membership Chair. Jennifer has a bachelor’s degree from Pace University.
published in a new chapter of the AP Stylebook in 2018. Swanson also serves on the organization’s election night decision desk, analyzing vote returns, historical data and the results of AP VoteCast to determine when AP officially calls the winner in elections all across the country. Prior to joining the AP, she was polling director at HuffPost Pollster (may it rest in peace), where she ran the site’s first survey research partnership. Before that, she was associate editor of the website Pollster.com. Swanson is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where she held her first job in the field of survey research as a telephone interviewer. She lives in Washington, D.C. with her cats Artemis and Apollo and a rapidly expanding collection of pandemic plants.

Courtney Kennedy is director of survey research at Pew Research Center. Her team is responsible for the design of the Center’s U.S. surveys and maintenance of the American Trends Panel. Kennedy conducts experimental research to improve the accuracy of public opinion polls. Her research focuses on nonresponse, weighting, modes of administration and sampling frames. Her work has been published in Public Opinion Quarterly, the Journal of Survey Statistics and Methodology and the Journal of Official Statistics. She has served as a co-author on five American Association for Public Opinion Research (AAPOR) task force reports, including chairing the committee that evaluated polling in the 2016 presidential election. Prior to joining Pew Research Center, Kennedy served as vice president of the advanced methods group at Abt SRBI, where she was responsible for designing complex surveys and assessing data quality. She has served as a statistical consultant for the U.S. Census Bureau’s decennial census and panels convened by the National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine. Kennedy has a doctorate from the University of Michigan and a master’s degree from the University of Maryland, both in survey methodology. Kennedy has served as AAPOR standards chair and conference chair.

Conference Engagement Opportunities

Speed Networking

Speed networking returns this year! Three one-hour sessions provide opportunities for organizations to meet with AAPOR’s top talent in short one-on-one sessions through our online conference platform. Whether job-seeking or just wanting to get to know more about the many organizations that are part of AAPOR, attendees will use this time to connect directly with representatives of organizations. Attendees have signed up for short one-on-one sessions. If you did not sign up ahead of time but still want to participate in a speed networking opportunity, please reach out to Justine Bulgar-Medina at BulgarMedina-Justine@norc.org or Patrick Habecker at phabecker2@unl.edu. You can also schedule private meetings with AAPOR’s sponsors, exhibitors, or attendees on your own to make new connections!

AAPOR Golf-Off

The AAPOR Golf Outing returns this year as the AAPOR Golf-Off! This year, everyone will play their 9-18 holes on their own, submitting pictures of scorecards, great drives, and awesome golf swag (bonus points for AAPOR swag)! To participate using the AAPOR Outdoors! Discussion board on the conference platform, (1) post a photo of your scorecard, (2) post an ‘action’ picture of you playing a round or making a great shot, or (3) post a picture of you in your golf-appropriate AAPOR attire. Craig Hill will once again coordinate this event and select the winners.

AAPOR Engages!

This year, we are holding three photo contests over social media and the discussion boards on the AAPOR Conference platform! Use #AAPOR on Twitter or post on the conference platform discussion boards under “Connect” on the top bar. Need help? Email bulgarmedina-justine@norc.org and we will post your photo for you! The picture with the most ‘likes’ in each category will win a $25 gift card! Multiple submissions strongly encouraged.

AAPOR Outdoors!

This year, in lieu of our in-person Fun Run, we’re hosting an “AAPOR Outdoors!” picture-based contest. For this Twitter and discussion-board worthy fun, we’re asking AAPORites to submit pictures of the outdoors — of themselves, from a walk, of their WFH office view, whatever inspires you! We will be looking for AAPOR swag (or a pet!) in the photo!

AAPOR Eats!

Chicken anyone?! Since we can’t be together, we’re continuing with the photo-contests with an all-new one for this year, we’re calling AAPOR Eats! Take your best pictures of your food and post using #AAPOR on Twitter, email us, or post to our discussion board. Multiple submissions strongly encouraged.

Remember When?: AAPOR Edition

Have those great AAPOR photos from over the years of conferences, colleagues, and chicken (we needed at least two mentions of the official food of AAPOR, after all)? Now is your chance to show them off! Take a picture, or upload your digital one, with a caption, to Twitter using #AAPOR, email us, or post to our discussion board. Multiple submissions strongly encouraged.

2021 Award Winners

AAPOR Book Award
Winner: Margaret Roller and Paul J. Lavrakas
Applied Qualitative Research Design: A Total Quality Framework Approach

The AAPOR Book Award recognizes influential books that have stimulated theoretical and scientific research in public opinion; and/or influenced our understanding or application of survey research methodology. Eligibility for the AAPOR Book Award includes any book in the field that is at least three years old (to allow time for books to be read and reviewed), including books published before or during the period covered by the AAPOR list of the Fifty Books That Have Significantly Shaped Public Opinion Research 1946-1995.

AAPOR Policy Impact Award
Winner: Feeding America for the Map the Meal Gap Project

The AAPOR Policy Impact Award acknowledges that a key purpose of opinion and other survey research is to facilitate well informed decision-making. The award recognizes outstanding research that has had a clear impact on improving policy decisions, practice and discourse, either in the public or private sectors.

Warren J. Mitofsky Innovators Award
Winner: BigSurv18 Conference Scientific Committee (founding members listed below)
Paul Biemer, RTI International
Craig A. Hill, RTI International
Lilli Japec, Statistics Sweden
Antje Kirchner, RTI International
Lars Lyberg, Demoskop (in memoriam)

The Warren J. Mitofsky Innovators Award recognizes accomplishments in the fields of public opinion and survey research that occurred in the past ten years or that had their primary impact on the field during the past decade. The innovations could consist of new theories, ideas, applications, methodologies or technologies. To be considered for the award, innovations must be publicly documented. The award can be given to individuals, groups or institutions.

Monroe G. Sirken Award in Interdisciplinary Survey Research Methods Research
Winner: Edith de Leeuw, Utrecht University

The Sirken Award in Interdisciplinary Survey Research Methods Research is given annually to a distinguished survey researcher for contributions to interdisciplinary survey research that improve the theory and methods of collecting, verifying, processing, presenting or analyzing survey data.

AAPOR Public Service Award
Winner: Dawn V. Nelson, U.S. Census Bureau

The AAPOR Public Service Award is intended to recognize and honor outstanding public service and dedication to maintaining AAPOR standards. It recognizes persons who work on behalf of the public sector, and have contributed to the quality of government surveys, data systems, research, leadership, and/or policy. This award is a means for recognizing the service and dedication of persons working in or with the public sector and their dedication to protecting, improving, and maintaining survey research standards and data quality.

Burns “Bud” Roper Fellows
Winners:
Tugba Adali, Hacettepe University Institute of Population Studies
Nathan Browning, Kiaer Research
Beyza Buyuker, University of Illinois Chicago
Lello Guluma, Mathematica Policy Research
Jan Höhne, University of Duisburg-Essen
Mark Owens, University of Texas at Tyler
Dixi Paglinawan-Modoc, Independent Survey Statistician
Alexandra Saunders, Mathematica Policy Research
Alexander Wenz, University of Mannheim
Xinyue Zhang, SurveyMonkey

The Burns “Bud” Roper Fellow Award is named for the late Burns “Bud” Roper who provided a substantial bequest in his will. Roper Fellows must demonstrate primary work responsibilities related to survey research or public opinion and have recently started their careers. Fellows receive financial assistance to help them attend the AAPOR Annual Conference and/or participate in conference short courses; most are first-time conference attendees.
2021 Award Winners (continued)

Seymour Sudman Student Paper Competition Award

Winner: Rachel Stenger and Angelica Phillips, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

“The Effect of Burdensome Survey Questions on Data Quality in An Omnibus Survey”

Honorable Mention: Joseph Phillips, Pennsylvania State University

“Affective Polarization: Over Time, Through The Generations, and During The Lifespan”

The Seymour Sudman Student Paper Competition Award is given as a tribute to Seymour Sudman in memory of his many contributions to survey methodology, his leadership in the AAPOR community and his teaching and mentoring of students in the survey research profession.

Student Conference Award

Winners:
- Ka Ming Chan, Geschwister Scholl Institute of Political Science
- Zeming Chen, University of Manchester
- Lauren Ellis, Rutgers University
- Nicole James, University of Essex
- Rongbo Jin, University of Arizona
- Yingling Liu, Baylor University
- Melike Saraç, Hacettepe University
- Justin Tseng, Harvard University
- Isabel Williams, University of Arizona

The AAPOR Student Conference Award funds student attendance at the AAPOR Annual Conference. Student Conference Awards help to offset the expense of attending the conference. The awards are offered to students who are in need of financial support to attend the conference and experience this important educational and collegial event for public opinion and survey researchers.

AAPOR Inclusive Voices Award

Winners: Family and Community Health Study and European Union Minorities and Discrimination Survey

This honor recognizes scholars/researchers, organizations, or institutions who have produced the important data sets, research, and survey methods that have improved the ability to study complex social phenomena related to understudied and underserved, and therefore under-voiced populations.

Student-Faculty Diversity Pipeline Award

Winners:
- Tylir Fowler and Nyron Crawford, Temple University
- Leslie Garza and Sean Roche, Texas State University
- Aliyah Mcilwain and Sarah Reckhow, Michigan State University
- Alexandria Williams and Alian Kasabian, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

The Student-Faculty Diversity Pipeline Award are intended to recruit faculty-student pairs interested in becoming AAPOR colleagues. The Award targets members of historically underrepresented racial-ethnic groups, interested in the study of public opinion and survey research methodology. AAPOR believes that the scholarly and practical understanding of our discipline is enhanced by the presence and involvement of different perspectives and creative thought. Such diversity and inclusion leads to consequential research, improved interdisciplinary collaboration, and a greater ability to address, understand, and solve problems related to public opinion and survey research methodology. This award is for students and faculty who identify as: American Indian or Alaska Native; Black or African American; Native Hawaiian or Other Pacific Islander; and Hispanic or Latino. The award is for waived conference registration and annual membership fee for the student and faculty.

Short Courses 1 and 2

Short Course 1: Doing Reproducible Research: Best Practices and Practical Tools for the Social Sciences

Time: 10:00 a.m. – 1:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructor: Alexandru Cernat, University of Manchester

Recent years have seen an increase in the amount and complexity of data available in the social sciences. At the same time, the social sciences are facing a reproducibility crisis as previous findings often fail to replicate. Both of these trends highlight the need for improving reproducibility and collaboration practices. This is especially important as reproducible research practices are rarely covered in traditional academic training. In this course, we will cover the main concepts used in reproducible research as well as the best practices in the field. After a general introduction we will cover some of the tools that researchers can use to help them in this process. More precisely, you will learn how Github and Rstudio projects can facilitate reproducibility in the popular R software. Additionally, you will get hands on experience in the creation of reproducible documents using Knitr. Lastly, you will learn how all these tools can be used together to create a reproducible research workflow.

Short Course 2: Designing Survey Experiments when Treatment Effects are Heterogeneous

Time: 2:00 p.m. – 5:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructor: Elizabeth Tipton, Northwestern University

Survey experiments have the potential to provide treatment effect estimates that are both causal and generalizable to a clearly defined target population. These treatment effects, however, are averages which can obscure important heterogeneity. That is, it is possible for the average effect to be very, very small and yet for there to exist one or more subgroups for whom the effect is actually quite large. Typical methods for the design of survey experiments, however, focus only on this average, leaving questions of heterogeneity for post-hoc analyses. But what if, instead, survey experiments anticipated this heterogeneity and were planned to study it? In this short course, I will provide the background necessary to do just this. This will include the generation of potential theoretical mechanisms for heterogeneity, the identification and prioritization of hypotheses regarding this heterogeneity, and the development of study designs that allow for these hypotheses to be tested. We will discuss various statistical concerns – including issues of causality with moderators and of statistical power – and examine how studies can be designed to incorporate them. The course will include case studies and group discussion; example analyses will be provided in R, but prior knowledge is not required.

Short Courses 3 and 4

Short Course 3: Transitioning from Interviewer-Administered Surveys to “Push to Web” with a Focus on Questionnaire Design and Mode Effects

Time: 10:00 a.m. – 1:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructor: Pamela Campanelli, The Survey Coach

Many researchers have been moving away from interviewer-based surveys due mainly to cost and more recently due to COVID-19 restrictions on face-to-face data collection. This course explores mode differences between interviewer-administered surveys and web surveys with a focus on questionnaire design differences. Over 60 key points will be explored under the themes of interviewer requirements and presence, web survey requirements and options, and mode differences between interviewer-administered and web surveys, from obvious aspects such as questionnaire length, fieldwork length, cost, and response rate to less obvious issues such as measurement errors due to type and format of question, visual concerns, unsuspected issues with HTML formats and how software that says it caters for smart phones may still can create problems. The course ends with what is “push to web” and why it is useful. Throughout there is a focus on working towards best practice across modes. This course will be highly interactive and is designed to mirror in-person training (including breakout group activities). It is not a webinar.

Short Course 4: Biosocial Data Collection and Analysis

Time: 2:00 p.m. – 5:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructors: Jessica Faul, University of Michigan and Colter Mitchell, University of Michigan

Over the last decade there has been a rapid increase in the collection and availability of biological data collected as part of larger investigations into joint effects of social and biological factors on health and behavior. However, the vast majority of the data collected to date used convenience samples in clinics, labs, and hospitals. Further, as more population-based studies have started collecting biological samples, protocols for moving collections from the lab to the fields have not fully been examined. Finally, appropriate statistical techniques more common in the social sciences are rarely used in biosocial work. The purpose of this course will be to familiarize survey methodologists with the collection, availability, and analysis of current biosocial data. Hands-on experience with collection paired with lecture materials will provide an introductory knowledge of the field. Key goals will be to spur insight and possible examination into the total survey error surrounding biological data collection and analysis. Although some limited survey methodological work has been conducted (and will be addressed), the majority of the time will focus on an overview of the entire collection to analysis process and existing gaps.

Short Courses 5 and 6

Short Course 5: Deepening and Enriching Qualitative Data Collection and Analysis with Creative Methods
Time: 10:00 a.m. – 1:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructor: Nicole Brown, UCL Institute of Education

The aim of this interactive workshop is to explore creativity within research, to identify opportunities to use creative methods within the research process and to consider analysis in qualitative research with a specific focus on how to treat and deal with data that is not textual, but comes out of the use of creative methods (drawings, paintings, pick-a-card, LEGO models, etc.). We will discuss what creativity is, why we should be creative in research and how we can introduce creativity and creative methods in our existing paradigms and methods. In breakout groups, delegates experience and actively experiment with “diamond 9” and “pick a card” activities, and representations through objects as examples for photo elicitation, and the process of building models and creating representations. These activities and methods have been found particularly helpful in yielding rich qualitative data and thus provide a deeper insight into research participants’ experiences. Using the real data from the activities we then explore how analysis of “messy data” can be approached. We consider the principles and process of analysis within qualitative research. We discuss the following questions: Is analysis ever an objective process? Is there a difference between analyzing data from linear texts or visual/sensory data, such as that from building LEGO models, song lists, photographs, videos and the like? How can visual/sensory data be analyzed?

Short Course 6: Identifying and Correcting Errors in Big Data
Time: 2:00 p.m. – 5:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructor: Ashley Amaya, Pew Research Center

While Big Data offers a potentially less expensive, less burdensome, and more timely alternative to survey data for producing a variety of statistics, it is not without error. But, the construction of, access to, and overall data structure of Big Data make it difficult to know where to start looking for errors and even more difficult to account or correct for them. In this course, we will walk through the Total Error Framework, an extension of the Total Survey Error framework, which can be applied to all types of Big Data and can serve as a template for researchers to investigate error in Big Data. We will walk through several examples of error and map it onto the framework and provide exercises for participants to come up with their own examples. Finally, we will walk through some best practices in determining whether the use of Big Data is a ‘good’ choice for various research objectives, how to correct or avoid errors in Big Data, and documenting the strengths and weaknesses of your Big Data source.

Short Courses 7 and 8

Short Course 7: Using (Non-)Probability Sample Surveys for Public Opinion Research

Time: 10:00 a.m. – 1:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructor: Carina Cornesse, University of Mannheim

For many decades, public opinion researchers have almost exclusively relied on probability sample surveys when aiming to draw inferences to the general population. However, probability sample surveys are expensive and data collection is often slow. With the rise of the internet in the 21st century, therefore, it became popular to conduct fast and cheap surveys via online panels, which usually rely on web-recruited nonprobability samples. In academic circles, this has led to the reigation of an old debate about whether and under which conditions data from nonprobability sample surveys can produce accurate population estimates. This debate is ongoing and concerns many areas of public opinion research, most prominently the field of election polling. This short course presents the arguments raised in the debate and summarizes the empirical evidence that has been accumulated so far. The short course thus focuses on providing the necessary context that public opinion researchers and survey practitioners need to participate in the debate. Moreover, the short course provides hands-on advice on the conditions under which nonprobability samples may be suitable to answer a particular research question (i.e., “fit-for-purpose” designs) and when it may be necessary to rely on probability samples instead.

Short Course 8: Tidy Survey Analysis in R using the srvyr Package

Time: 2:00 p.m. – 5:30 p.m. Eastern
Instructors: Stephanie Zimmer, RTI International and Rebecca Powell, RTI International

This course will provide an in-depth introduction to survey analysis in R. We will primarily discuss the R packages ‘srvyr’ and ‘survey’, which allow for analysis of complex survey data using Taylor Series Linearization or replicate weights for variance estimation. This will be an interactive class with time for hands-on practice using public use files of common survey data. We will introduce how to specify the sampling design and how to do basic analyses including estimating means, proportions, totals, t-tests, and regressions. This class is appropriate for R users who know the basics of the ‘tidyverse’ including the ‘mutate’, ‘group by’, ‘summarize’, and pipe (%>%) functions. We will provide code for all examples in the course including exercises to do on your own and their solutions.

Speed Networking
Speed networking returns this year! Three one-hour sessions provide opportunities for organizations to meet with AAPOR’s top talent in short one-on-one sessions through our online conference platform. Whether job-seeking or just wanting to get to know more about the many organizations that are part of AAPOR, attendees will use this time to connect directly with representatives of organizations. Attendees have signed up for short one-on-one sessions. If you did not sign up ahead of time but still want to participate in a speed networking opportunity, please reach out to Justine Bulgar-Medina at BulgarMedina-Justine@norc.org or Patrick Habecker at phabecker2@unl.edu. You can also schedule private meetings with AAPOR’s sponsors, exhibitors, or attendees on your own to make new connections!

Speed Networking

Wednesday, May 12, 2021, 4:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. Eastern

Speed networking returns this year! Three one-hour sessions provide opportunities for organizations to meet with AAPOR's top talent in short one-on-one sessions through our online conference platform. Whether job-seeking or just wanting to get to know more about the many organizations that are part of AAPOR, attendees will use this time to connect directly with representatives of organizations. Attendees have signed up for short one-on-one sessions. If you did not sign up ahead of time but still want to participate in a speed networking opportunity, please reach out to Justine Bulgar-Medina at BulgarMedina-Justine@norc.org or Patrick Habecker at phabecker2@unl.edu. You can also schedule private meetings with AAPOR's sponsors, exhibitors, or attendees on your own to make new connections!

AAPOR | JPSM Citation Program

Introducing the AAPOR|JPSM Citation in Survey Methodology and the Citation in Data Analytics for Social Science.

How does it work?
Each Citation is based on a combination of
- Four short courses organized by JPSM and
- An additional elective of either an AAPOR short course offered during the AAPOR Annual Conference or one of the AAPOR Webinar Kits.

For more information, visit AAPOR.org/Education-Resources/AAPOR-JPSM-Citation-Program.aspx

The Joint Program in Survey Methodology (JPSM) was founded in 1993 and offers Master and PhD programs, online programs, and professional development in survey and data science.

JPSM Director: Partha Lahiri, Professor, Joint Program in Survey Methodology and Department of Mathematics
