

Transparency Initiative Coordinating Committee

August 2014

During this past month, virtually all Transparency Initiative documents and educational modules were re-reviewed and revised in order to insure that all materials were internally consistent, as they have gone through multiple independent reviews and revisions over the past two years. All TICC members participated in this process, and the full TICC met on August 19 to discuss last minute planning for our soft-launch, set for Monday, September 8. We also continued to discuss the review process to be employed for reviewing TI applications. This process is currently being finalized on paper and will be available to TICC members in advance of our next call, set for September 2, which will focus on this process.
